Laminate first captured the imagination of consumers as a 'revolutionary' benchtop material back in the 1950s. But it's come a long way since then. Thanks to amazing advances in design technology, laminate has evolved into an innovative and stylish design solution. With hundreds of contemporary, design leading options paired with a range of complimentary finishes, laminate now offers unlimited possibilities.

THE BENCHMARK FOR BENCHTOPS

High Pressure Laminate (HPL) is still a popular choice for benchtops in kitchens and bathrooms across Australia. With hundreds of modern decors to choose from, the mind boggles at the design possibilities. Best of all, laminate is still the most cost effective decorative benchtop solution on the market. Patterns vary from woodgrain through to traditional quartz and large-scale stone replicas in a range of natural, gloss or textured finishes with edging options to suit.

Stunning stone patterns

With laminate you can get that authentic stone benchtop look for a fraction of the cost. Thanks to innovative printing technology, laminate can now capture realistic stone patterns with greater clarity to produce a stunning benchtop that looks just like real stone. Plus a range of edging options now allow you to create the premium look of a real stone slab, or simply stick with the traditional rolled-edge.

Contemporary woodgrains

Celebrating timber patterns and hues, woodgrains have been traditionally favoured for vertical surfaces. Progressive design and European trends have seen the emergence of woodgrains in many horizontal applications such as benchtops and breakfast bars. Woodgrain laminates add a touch of style to cabinetry and shelving and being moisture resistant, they present the best option if wanting to achieve this look for a benchtop.

Fantastic finishes

With a range of stunning finishes available, an ordinary benchtop can transcend into the extraordinary. A range of gloss finishes creates a brilliant lustre that mimics polished stone. Or you can produce a more subtle stone look with a range of textured finishes that echo the sparkle of natural quartz.

Durability benefits

Laminate offers outstanding durability across the board. It's extremely heat, scratch and stain resistant. Plus our 7 year limited warranty guarantees a stunning look that will last. For more information visit laminex.com.au and check out our Laminate Fact Sheets.

VERTICAL SOLUTIONS

Low Pressure Melamine (LPM) is the ideal, practical choice for vertical surface applications across the board. No other material can match the amazing variety of colours and finishes available for such an affordable price. Easy to clean, stain resistant, and highly durable, it's an extremely versatile surface material with hundreds of stunning designs to choose from. Whether it's solid colours and woodgrains or stone and linear patterns, there's inspiration aplenty. And you can pair them with a stylish selection of gloss, satin or textured finishes to realise your vision your way.

LOOKING BEYOND THE KITCHEN

A common misconception has been that laminate is just for kitchens. But if you take a look around, you'll find that leading designers now embrace laminate as a material of choice. The Laminex Group has picked up on this trend to provide design solutions for the whole home. It's still excellent value, and adds style, interest, and class to countless applications including wardrobes, cupboards, doors and walls.

Wet area applications

The Laminex Group also offer laminates perfectly suited for wet area panelling. They're ideal for shower recesses and laundry walls, quick to install and a breeze to maintain. As a non-porous, grout free alternative to traditional ceramic tiles, they're the perfect DIY solution.

High wear surfaces

Compact laminate is a thicker highly dense and robust material able to stand the test of time in the most demanding environments subject to moisture, impact and harsh chemicals. Its unique composition gives it a distinctive black core which doesn't require edging and serves as a striking design feature.

Outdoor living

Then there's Laminex Alfresco Compact Laminate. Made from durable compact laminate specifically designed for exterior areas, it's ideal for a myriad of outdoor solutions including kitchens, BBQ areas, outdoor furniture, and panelling. With outstanding resilience and sophisticated style, it's the revolution outdoor living has been waiting for.

ENDLESS POSSIBILITIES

Yesterday's renovators and homebuilders would look at today's laminates with envy thanks to the limitless design possibilities now readily available. And with continued leaps in design technology, history is sure to repeat itself. Laminate will always continue to push the envelope of what's possible and provide inspiring solutions across the whole home.
